A Foxhole On the Rhine

American soldiers are on the west bank of the Rhine. Eventually, at heavy cost, they will manage to cross that historic river and advance into the heart of Germany.

Reaching the river marks one of the climaxes of the war in Europe. We may imagine that many of our American fighting men are aware of their participation in a historic event—far more aware than it is possible to be back home in America. A foxhole on the Rhine, between shell bursts, must be a passing good place to get at the ultimate meaning of a great many things.

Those American fighting men who have risked death and sometimes lost the gamble in order to reach the Rhine did not make the attempt because they want anything the Germans or any other Europeans possess. They are not seeking loot or territory. They are not interested in pillage or terror. If we may believe what they say about themselves, they want nothing but the successful conclusion of their mission so they can come home.

The Germans cannot understand that. It sometimes is questionable whether the British understand it, or the Russians, the French, the Belgians and other Europeans who have seen American fighting men on their continent twice in one generation; they do not always seem to understand. It would be difficult under even better circumstances than those provided by the fears and chaos of war to understand this thing about America.

Europeans have not gone to other continents to fight for principles; they have gone to obtain tangible things they wanted—territory, trade, domination. Perhaps it is occurring to American fighting men at this historic moment on the west bank of the Rhine that their mission is unique. They have crossed an ocean, invaded a continent, conquered space, time and a determined enemy for an ideal—the ideal of a world so organized that nations cannot run amuck and impose their will by force. Between shell bursts, they even may muse on the paradox that they are using perhaps the strongest force which ever will be assembled—to destroy force as an implement of national policy.

Europeans cannot understand that easily, nor Asians. It is contrary to their experience with things as they are and always have been. They did not understand it in 1918, and their failure led to American disillusionment and cynicism. Perhaps they will understand it better in 1945 and after 1945. Perhaps understanding it, they may subscribe sincerely to the same ideal and continue to subscribe to it during the years ahead when the temptation again will be strong to revert to naked force to accomplish national aims. That is the problem of peace.

From a foxhole on the Rhine, peace must seem no more than a dim possibility, but American fighting men may be thinking about it between shell bursts. They are negotiating peace with their lives. Far more than the statesmen who assume to be able to represent them, they have earned the right to speak, to be represented, to be consulted. As they hear of momentous conferences already held and to be held in the future, they have earned the right to believe that one of them—one of the ordinary men who do the fighting—always should be present. And when opinions are requested, the statesmen should ask the men who paid the price for their previous failures to speak first.

The Dog With the Long Tail

The possibility that the national debt may become a financial tail of such gargantuan proportions that it will wag the economic dog supporting it will be reviewed again in connection with legislation to raise the debt limit to 300 billion dollars. Congressional action is imminent.

Present limit on the debt is 260 billion, with the debt standing now at 235 billion. It will reach the existing limit sometime in September, if the present rate of increase is maintained during the spring and summer. It was raised from 210 to 260 billion last year to accommodate the increases then regarded as inevitable—and nothing has happened since then to change the prospect.

While government debt is not in all ways subject to the same rules applying to private and corporation debt, one point of similarity is immutable. The key to debt management is ability to afford it. The carrying charges on a 300 billion dollar debt at 2 per cent would be six billion. Economists guess that this could be handled with no trouble if the national income can be kept close to 150 billion. But this is where the tail threatens to start wagging the dog—the necessity of maintaining national income at a fixed point in order to support a national debt. This has become, behind scenes, the most pressing of all national problems. Ordinarily, it is not even discussed publicly any more, chiefly because the less said about it the better during wartime when nothing can be done about it anyway. But the tail keeps on growing.

In a few days Congress is expected to make an official estimate of 300 billion as the outside limit. But until the war ends, no one can be sure that it won't be 400 billion, perhaps 500 billion, perhaps more. After all, even before war began, the debt had grown from a pre-depression total of about 16 billion dollars in 1930 to almost 49 billion in 1941.

March, The Beginning

The mild beginning of the loud and stormy month of March suggests why it formerly was favored as the first month in the calendar. In its better aspects, March with its quickly lengthening days, is the literal beginning of the mild season.

The old Romans put March first, and the English retained it in first place for legal purposes until the 18th century. In France it was first for all purposes until the 16th century. By seasonal usage, it still belongs naturally at the beginning, not the end, of the year's first quarter.

Winter has passed, though March is still draughty. Snow lingers in drifts on north banks and is piled up fresh by sudden squalls, but the earth is absorbing heat minute by minute during each day—and so there is more slush than snow, in net effect.

First robins are no longer a novelty, and the grass is greening. Buds swell, kites sail and marbles roll on the moist, packed earth. In the sugar groves the sap finally turned "buddy," and over everything hangs a sense of imminence that is Nature's telepathic warning of Spring's certain arrival. March surely should be restored as the first month again if calendar reform ever is adopted.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, March 6.

AN interesting chain of planetary configurations is indicative of exceptional opportunities for making dreams come true, otherwise, to place ideals and fanciful hopes on the sound level of reality, with splendid accomplishments and satisfaction. While definite and decisive action toward such end is vital, yet a sound and consistent policy of good judgment, constructive technique, with concern for the rights and happiness of others are slated for best results. In both business and personal affiliations. While innovation or fresh methods are in order, it is advisable to keep practical, considerate and amiable.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of achievement, tangible results, sound benefits, although the main inspiration and stimuli may be sourced in the idealistic, fanciful, elusive and intriguing. Yet careful, consistent, shrewd and sensible activities and programs should place affairs on a realistic and lucrative foundation. Ingenious or novel methods may gain ground by practical analysis or exceptional skills. But be considerate of rules and regulations and the rights of others. Be courteous, tactful, and find both personal, business and spiritual blessings and rewards.

A child born on this day will have exceptional creative ability and skills to convert dreams into realities, and capture the intangible and elusive in coils of practical rewards and surprising happiness—personal and career.

This Is News, Too

Union leaders frequently complain that too much attention is paid to labor's strikes, too little to its on-the-job accomplishments in this war.

The answer to that is that, perhaps unfortunately, the departure from normal is usually what makes news. And the answer also gives an excuse to repeat an item of recent news that may have been overlooked.

On Washington's birthday, mechanics at two small New York war plants insisted on turning out vitally important material for the Navy, even though the building owners refused to provide heat or elevator service.

The men worked all day at temperatures below 40 degrees. They drew only straight-time pay. Nobody complained or behaved as if he thought he were being heroic or doing something extraordinary.

If we were an orchid-bestowing columnist we should certainly distribute a bloom apiece to these workers.

Treatment of Arthritis By Injection

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.
ARTHRITIS means inflammation of the joints. This inflammation causes the joints to be painful and swollen. Unfortunately, up to the present time the exact cause of certain types of arthritis has not been found, nor have measures for treatment been found which will give complete relief from the disease.

In treating arthritis, the physician makes every possible effort to employ methods that will relieve the symptoms as quickly as possible. Rest, the application of heat and the use of high dosages of certain vitamins, particularly vitamin D, have been found helpful. Some years ago, a method of treating arthritis by injection of an acid—such as lactic acid—into the joints was suggested, because it was found that the fluids in the joint affected by arthritis were alkaline.

Doctor H. Warren Crowe of Englewood, Colorado, thinks that a solution of acid potassium phosphate is better than lactic acid because the acid potassium phosphate gives a more prolonged effect. In carrying out the treatment, the skin over the joint is painted with iodine and then a needle on a hypodermic syringe is inserted into the joint. No anesthetic is necessary except in the case of the hip joint. If there is any fluid present in the joint, it is withdrawn through the needle. Then the solution of acid potassium phosphate is injected slowly. If the injection is given slowly enough, that is, over a period of several minutes, it will be practically painless. If sharp pains occur, it usually indicates that the needle is not in the joint. After the injection is given, the joint may be loosely bound with adhesive tape, leaving room for some temporary swelling. It is not necessary for the patient to rest after the treatment.

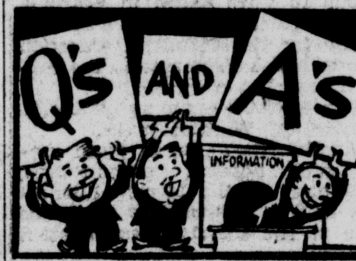

Doctor Crowe has used his method in more than 400 patients. He has carefully studied the results obtained in injection of 284 joints. One-fourth of the joints became painless and attained full movement and normal action. In one-third of them deformity and swelling of the joints were reduced and the movements increased. Two-fifths had only temporary relief. One case was definitely worse after the injection. The best results are obtained in those cases in which the disease is not causing severe symptoms. Failure occurs if there is too active infection present or the injections are not given into the joint. The best results are obtained in the fingers, knees and wrists. Hip joints may require several injections. The treatment is without any danger when properly used.

AN interesting chain of planetary configurations is indicative of exceptional opportunities for making dreams come true, otherwise, to place ideals and fanciful hopes on the sound level of reality, with splendid accomplishments and satisfaction. While definite and decisive action toward such end is vital, yet a sound and consistent policy of good judgment, constructive technique, with concern for the rights and happiness of others are slated for best results in both business and personal affiliations. While innovation or fresh methods are in order, it is advisable to keep practical, considerate and amiable.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of achievement, tangible results, sound benefits, although the main inspiration and stimuli may be sourced in the idealistic, fanciful, elusive and intriguing. Yet careful, consistent, shrewd and sensible activities and programs should place affairs on a realistic and lucrative foundation. Ingenious or novel methods may gain ground by practical analysis or exceptional skills. But be considerate of rules and regulations and the rights of others. Be courteous, tactful, and find both personal, business and spiritual blessings and rewards.

A child born on this day will have exceptional creative ability and skills to convert dreams into realities, and capture the intangible and elusive in coils of practical rewards and surprising happiness—personal and career.

This Is News, Too

Union leaders frequently complain that too much attention is paid to labor's strikes, too little to its on-the-job accomplishments in this war.

The answer to that is that, perhaps unfortunately, the departure from normal is usually what makes news. And the answer also gives an excuse to repeat an item of recent news that may have been overlooked.

On Washington's birthday, mechanics at two small New York war plants insisted on turning out vitally important material for the Navy, even though the building owners refused to provide heat or elevator service.

The men worked all day at temperatures below 40 degrees. They drew only straight-time pay. Nobody complained or behaved as if he thought he were being heroic or doing something extraordinary.

If we were an orchid-bestowing columnist we should certainly distribute a bloom apiece to these workers.

Treatment of Arthritis By Injection

BY HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN, M. D.

ARTHRITIS means inflammation of the joints. This inflammation causes the joints to be painful and swollen. Unfortunately, up to the present time the exact cause of certain types of arthritis has not been found, nor have measures for treatment been found which will give complete relief from the disease.

In treating arthritis, the physician makes every possible effort to employ methods that will relieve the symptoms as quickly as possible. Rest, the application of heat and the use of high dosages of certain vitamins, particularly vitamin D, have been found helpful. Some years ago, a method of treating arthritis by injection of an acid—such as lactic acid—into the joints was suggested, because it was found that the fluids in the joint affected by arthritis were alkaline.

Doctor H. Warren Crowe of Englewood, N. J., thinks that a solution of acid potassium phosphate is better than lactic acid because the acid potassium phosphate gives a more prolonged effect. In carrying out the treatment, the skin over the joint is painted with iodine and then a needle on a hypodermic syringe is inserted into the joint. No anesthetic is necessary except in the case of the hip joint. If there is any fluid present in the joint, it is withdrawn through the needle. Then the solution of acid potassium phosphate is injected slowly. If the injection is given slowly enough, that is, over a period of several minutes, it will be practically painless. If sharp pains occur, it usually indicates that the needle is not in the joint. After the injection is given, the joint may be loosely bound with adhesive tape, leaving room for some temporary swelling. It is not necessary for the patient to rest after the treatment.

Doctor Crowe has used his method in more than 400 patients. He has carefully studied the results obtained in injection of 284 joints. One-fourth of the joints became painless and attained full movement and normal action. In one-third of the joints, deformity and swelling of the joints were reduced and the movements increased. Two-fifths had only temporary relief. One case was definitely worse after the injection.

The best results are obtained in those cases in which the disease is not causing severe symptoms. Failure occurs if there is too active infection present, or the injections are not given into the joint. The best results are obtained in the fingers, knees and wrists. Hip joints may require several injections. The treatment is without any danger when properly used.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

Aggie asked old Mr. Waite where Jack was and got the usual, irritable response: "How should I know! In this room, I guess."

Aggie took the staircase in agile, noiseless bounds. The floor above was carpeted. There was a transom over the door of the end room, painted black to keep out the hall light. In the hall, on a small mantel, stood a vase of artificial flowers. Aggie removed the vase and carried the table to Jack's door. He stood up on it gingerly; his face came level with the painted transom. He moved his head until he found a crack in the paint and pressed his eye close.

The partial view of Jack's room was adequate. It was in feverish disorder. Two bulging suitcases stood on the windowsill and another, nearly full, was on the bed. A revolver lay on the bureau.

The professor restored the table to its place and knocked on Jack's door. It sprang open. Browne stood there in a shirt, tie, and gray slacks, with a fedora cocked on the back of his head. When he saw that it was Aggie, his face relaxed. He even smiled. "Something I can do?"

Aggie stepped toward him. "Take your hat off, Jack. You're not going anywhere."

Browne backed into his room. "Yes, I am! Downtown! An errand!" His voice rose. "Don't come in here!" His muscles twitched as he yielded ground—twitched with the restrained will to grapple with Aggie. Professor Plum kept coming and Jack kept backing until he bumped against his bedstead. Then he tried to turn.

Aggie, one hand in the pocket of his jacket, said, "I wouldn't go for that revolver if I were you."

Jack sat down on the bed, his face shiny, his chest rose and fell jerkily. His eyes had a look of frantic speculation which subsided as Aggie did something more sinister than to push back some magazines on a desk and sit on it.

Jack said, "Why are you coming here—like this? Suppose I am going out? I can't stand this job any more! I hate the people! The summer has been too much—already! My nerves are not to pieces!"

The professor continued to stare at him. He was now a little closer to the bureau than Jack. "The trap door," Aggie said, "is in your office. You cut it yourself, I presume. And you cut the steps."

Jack said, "Are you nuts? What trap door? What passage? My office? I've hardly been in it all evening."

Aggie's face was like that of a judge listening to testimony where a prisoner was hanging himself. Jack blustered. "I don't know what you mean! Get out of here!"

Aggie kept a hand in his jacket pocket. "You know I've got Hank."

Jack said, "Hank who?" But he was slow in saying it.

Professor Plum shrugged and swung his foot. "Everything pointed to you."

Jack seemed to make some sense of the discussion. "Oh — Bogarty! You came here to accuse me of that! Aggie, old man! You've known me since I was a kid! You know that I'm a kid! You know that I took this summer to decide to beat it! You don't know me better. If you've got something that'll scare the truth from somebody who is guilty of all the horrible things around here— I'll do anything I can! Stay here, even. But you're barking up the wrong tree."

Aggie sat still on the desk—save for his foot—which went on swinging. "Speaking of trees—they had a lot to do with it. Two good-sized trees—chopped down to make that deadfall to put Calder's body in. Two others that showed me how Davis had been killed. A tree that was broken phone wire dangled from. Some high-up scars in the single tree convincing me the murderer—had been here last winter. You were here then. And it had to be somebody who was in the club a lot. Somebody who could know about the old Sachem House foundations. Being here every winter—you could know them."

"Anybody could!"

"Yes. That bottle of hock. Somebody—following me the night I was down in the wine cellar and trying to leave ahead of me in a hurry— would have knocked it out of a bin. You could have landed standing up. You weren't down there that night? You didn't hear me going through the lobby—and follow me — and back and change into pajamas?"

"Of course not! Beth saw me when I came downstairs that night."

"You didn't do it, then?"

"No kidding, Aggie!"

"Funny I thought you did. I thought Bogarty came in here with that fox in a cage. I thought he told me he'd left his calling card pinned to Sarah's door by his knife—and thought he got talking about the old days and probably about his plans to get some money. I thought you realized you were close to everything here and let out something about the fact that his old friends had a lot of gold he had mined for them. Had it hidden. I thought you'd dug out the old secret exit during the winter—just to relieve your boredom. I didn't know how you found it. And I thought that you were half crazed by the start of another season. A season of being ordered around and patronized by people who were still rich—while you were poor, and your father was a suicide, and your mother was dead."

"You're wrong!"

"I thought—bearing there was a cash deposit around here—a big one you were nuts, slugged Bogarty and hid him down below with the hope of making him disgorge the cash about where the gold was. I thought, when you got back up, you'd be playing with that fox in a cage. I thought he'd just ambled

Couple Wed In Ceremony On Saturday

Using the Friends ceremony, Miss Lois Holloway and Harold E. L. Barton exchanged marriage vows at 3 p. m. Saturday at the Wilbur Friends meeting house in Winona.

As customary in this service the bride sat with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Holloway, Lisbon, R. D. In the absence of the groom's parents, the groom sat with his sister, Miss Ruth Barton, Cleveland, Tenn., a college student there, and Miss Kyo Agawa, Japanese, of Hood River, Ore., a student at Schaeffer college, Cleveland, O.

The bride wore a lovely white gown made with a long fitted bodice of brocade, long sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt of corded silk. Her only ornament was a two-strand necklace of seed pearls. She wore orange blossoms in her hair.

Miss Mabel Holloway, Lisbon, R. D., sister of the bride, and Miss Antoinette Bierce, Torrington, Conn., a college roommate of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore blue and white rayon serge trimmed with white net ruffles.

Other attendants were Leland Parkhurst, Washington, D. C., and Warren Holloway, Lisbon, R. D., brother of the bride. Mrs. Holloway, the bride's mother, was attired in royal blue rayon crepe.

A reception for the couple was held at the home of the bride's parents. The home was made attractive with bouquets of mixed flowers.

Refreshments were served. The bride's three tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Twenty-one of the 75 guests are students at Schaeffer college. Those from Salem were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Holloway and family; Miss Lida Blackburn, and Mrs. Earl Moffett and daughter, Joyce Elaine. Other guests were from Alliance, Barnesville, Harrisville, Damascus, Middleton, Hubbard, and Winona.

Mrs. Barton, a graduate of the Friends Boarding school, Barnesville, attended Salem Business college, and Schaeffer college. Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barton, Eugene, Ore., is in the C. P. S. Mental Hygiene program at Philadelphia. He attended the University of Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton attended a wedding in Cleveland Sunday. They will spend a few days at the home of her parents and then go to Philadelphia. They expect to locate near Philadelphia.

Hoisting a pair of feet higher than your head—when you're alone and can without sacrificing dignity—will ease up pressure on these down-trodden members and make them more willing to leap to your bidding.

Nobody backs up the idea of the elevated foot rest more wholeheartedly than dancers who in performance and rehearsal use feet muscles steadily from four to six hours a day. To give her relief, ballerina Carlye Ramey—the enchantress Broadway's "Song of Norway" audiences—uses the arm rest of a couch as a foot rest; sinks her head fully 15 degrees lower than her toes; keeps this position until feet feel revived.

Another trick Carlye suggests for coaxing a spirited gait out of wooden tread is to massage your feet when you give them a bath. To give slide to hands, she says, lather well with soap and then pull upward from toes.

Remember! Your country is depending on those used fats to help make medicines, bullets, synthetic rubber, soaps for military and civilian use, and hundreds of other essentials. Check your own savings by this check list. Maybe you've been overlooking some of these sources.

Approved by OPA and WFA. Paid for by industry.

HOW TO GET EXTRA RED POINTS!

1. SAVE all bits of fat you trim from meat, and fat scraps left on plates. Keep them in a small bowl and, once a week, melt them down.
2. SCRAPE pans before washing them. No amount is too small to be of use...even a tablespoon helps!
3. SKIM stews, soups, and gravies while they cook. Afterwards, chill them and scoop off the fat.
4. SAVE water in which you cook hot dogs, sausages, and ham. Chill, and scoop off the fat.
5. KEEP the can (any tin can will do) on the back of the stove where it's handy. When full, take to your butcher. Get 2 red points and 4¢ for every pound. Start today!

We are doing all we can TO MEET THE WARTIME

TELEPHONE DEMAND

● For more than three years all telephone manufacturing plants have been working full force to turn out electrical weapons and field communications equipment for the army and navy and have made nothing for civilian use. Yet in that period in Ohio, the number of telephones in service has increased by 168,700.

Our shelves long ago were cleaned out. But by stretching our facilities by every means we could devise, we have been able to give service to thousands of applicants who otherwise would have been without it. For instance:

1. Connecting more telephones to our central offices than they were built to handle.

2. Rebuilding thousands of old type of telephone instruments and putting them back in use.

3. Patching up and reclaiming every facility capable of giving service.

4. Making more service available by increasing the number of homes served by party lines instead of private lines.

We are doing all we can TO MEET THE WARTIME TELEPHONE DEMAND

For more than three years all telephone manufacturing plants have been working full force to turn out electrical weapons and field communications equipment for the army and navy and have made nothing for civilian use. Yet in that period in Ohio, the number of telephones in service has increased by 168,700.

Our shelves long ago were cleaned out. But by stretching our facilities by every means we could devise, we have been able to give service to thousands of applicants who otherwise would have been without it. For instance:

1. Connecting more telephones to our central offices than they were built to handle.
2. Rebuilding thousands of old type of telephone instruments and putting them back in use.
3. Patching up and reclaiming every facility capable of giving service.
4. Making more service available by increasing the number of homes served by party lines instead of private lines.

5. Showing customers how to get more out of their present telephone facilities and persuading many to get along with less.

6. Recovering many instruments by asking business users to release temporarily any telephones not essential in their current operations.

7. Taking extra good care of equipment that cannot be replaced.

The fine spirit of understanding co-operation shown by telephone users has been another factor in making it possible for us to do more with less.

But in spite of this co-operation and our best efforts there are more than 75,000 persons waiting for home telephone service. We do not like to say "no" to anyone. It is our business to furnish service, not refuse it, but our hands are tied.

We will continue to do our level best to spread available service among as many as possible by stretching all facilities to the limit.

Oildex Filter On Autos Installed by Hine Motor

Oildex is a device that can be attached to all automobiles and trucks. It is scientifically designed and engineered for the purpose of removing diluent vapors from the crankcase before they condense into damaging liquid impurities. Oildex extracts, then filters these vapors and returns them through the Oildex volumetric control valve to the cylinders where they are utilized as reclaimed fuel, resulting in notable increased mileage.

Oildex thus prevents the crankcase oil from becoming contaminated by impurities, such as water, acid and unburned gas.

Oildex has many other features but the H. I. Hine Motor Co., at 301 W. State st. will gladly explain if you will take the time to know more about a new development that will save you a great deal of motor oil, gasoline and repair bills. The cost of this device is very small compared to the savings that start the minute it is installed and continues every mile you drive your car.

Contrary to the belief of many, the Florist Telegraph Delivery association, of which Endres-Gross are members, does not sell flowers. It's a service. It is not designed to sell flowers but rather to sell ways and means of transmitting flowers.

That's why Mr. Gross can take your order for any sort of floral arrangement and wire the order to another association member in a distant city and know that the order will be filled exactly as requested.

Dodge Strike Makes 13,500 Idle

The Common Cold: Our Lowest Common Denominator

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK — A survey of all known science and medicine for treating the common cold boils down to the strong possibility that for most people rest in bed is the single best remedy.

There are other remedies that help, or seem to help, but not one promises the long-sought cure. This survey appears in a new book, The Common Cold and How to Fight It, by Noah D. Fabricant, M.D., of the University of Illinois Medical School in Chicago.

Magnit Lines Of The Nose
The nose has eight defenses, and breaking any one of them may open the way to a cold. The eight are, a slightly acid nose, mucous secretion which amounts to a quart of fluid each 24 hours, ciliary action which is the sweeping out effect of living hairs that wave 250 times a minute, phagocytosis by the white blood cells, the sterilizing action of lysozyme, an antiseptic manufactured by the human body which hasn't even been investigated for cold protection, local reactions, natural immunity and local immunity.

With so many defenses there are at least scores of ways that they can be broken so that you catch cold. Germs can pierce them, weather can hurt them, improper cold medicine can damage them and your own state of mind can do it. Contrary to popular belief, Dr. Fabricant says, the wide spread ideas about alkalizing the body to cure colds never had any convincing scientific basis. The normal condition of the nose is slightly on the acid side. Bacteria are found in great numbers when the nose becomes alkaline.

Rest And Sleep Help
Rest and sleep tend to promote the acid trend of the nose. The causes of colds are listed as a filterable virus, chilling, exposure to pronounced weather changes, lack of sleep, physical fatigue, overindulgence in food and drink, dietary indiscretions, worry, fear, severe shock, excitement and sexual stimulation.

As for remedies, there is rest in bed, especially good at the start of a cold. Dr. Fabricant suggests that if every American worker could be made to rest when a cold starts, there would be a worth while economic gain. He estimates the annual common cold losses at about one billion dollars.

A steam kettle or vaporizer is good in the early stages, with a warm room at about 70.

Alcohol, especially after chilling, aids in reestablishing circulation to the skin, but has dangers, because it sometimes causes nasal congestion in some people, and excessive use may lower body resistance.

For cold-susceptibles it is well to hold a handkerchief over the nose for the first few moments when going outdoors on a cold day.

With drops, some help, others are not safe. Good effects are likely from use of drops containing vasoconstrictors that shrink the swollen nasal passages. Dr. Fabricant himself favors drops that are slightly acid. He warns that use of the same dropper or even the same bottle can carry a cold from one person to another.

Menthol makes the nose feel cool, but he says has no therapeutic use. He warns against over use of argyrol (silver) which may be good in proper amounts but overdone makes a permanent brownish stain in the nose.

He says that mineral oils in drops interfere with ciliary action. Oily drops sometimes cause lipid pneumonia.

The sulfa drugs he does not consider as yet safe for cold treatment nor of certain value either.

Vitamins Don't Stop Colds
As for vitamins, Dr. Fabricant declares Americans have not reduced common colds by their tremendous vitamin intake. He shows individually also that vitamins fail.

As for the cold vaccines, with which many persons find relief, he says: "Whether this state of affairs is actually produced by the cold shots, the seasonal well-being of the patient, or perhaps by the psychological effect produced by the hypodermic needle is something physicians have not completely determined."

There is a method of snuffing vaccine up the nose which he says is still too new to have numerous devotees.

No value is found in cathartics, or keeping the window wide open at night, nor in drinking large quantities of liquid or eating any special diet. Nor for barelegged and hatless costumes of children to harden them, nor for the widespread faith in baking soda to alkalize, nor cold baths.

Metal bits that find their way into vacuum cleaners may cut the belt or nick or bend the fan blades.

Cook vegetables quickly in as little water as possible.

QUALITY SERVICE HEADQUARTERS FOR SALEM, OHIO

Salem Goes To Quarter-Finals By Bumping Girard 57-22; Clippers Swamp Lowellville, Meet Champs Tomorrow

Display Smoothness, Finesse In Winning At Youngstown

Geared to the exact pitch by Coach Bob Miller, the Salem Quakers performed with velvet precision Saturday night at Youngstown South's field house and bumped a completely outclassed Girard outfit by 35 points, the largest margin in any tournament game so far, to move into the quarter-finals and a contest with Boardman at 9 p. m. Friday.

The original field of 26 teams is now narrowed to eight. All four seeded teams, Canton McKinley, Timken, Youngstown South and Salem, are still in, along with Boardman, Campbell Memorial, Canton Township and Youngstown East.

The final score of the Girard-Salem clash was 57-22, and Girard's 22 points also marks the best defensive show turned in by any team in the tourney.

Tournament fans—other than Salem—are beginning to take notice of what many termed the "smoothest" looking outfit so far.

Purposely taking it slow throughout the first half Saturday, Coach Miller's charges failed to build up a large margin, but held the game in control from the start. At the end of the first frame, which featured three long set shots by Ray Kelly and Norm Smith, Salem led 15-8. At time to rest after the second frame the Quakers had stepped into a 26-14 lead.

The slowness of attack disappeared in the third period, as the locals—under instructions from Miller—unleashed their effective fast break.

Swishing down the floor with amazing agility and ball handling, Salem swung the meshes with double headers seven times in quick succession while Coach O. C. Baumgartner's lads got only five points. This was done in less than three minutes of the third period.

In all Salem totaled 19 in the third and led 45-20 as the final began.

Girard zoned during the first half but came out of the zone and into a man-to-man defense in the third. This obviously made scoring easier for the Quakers and they took quick advantage of the change.

Miller moved Walt Brian in under the basket Saturday and the tallest Senior showed Youngstown's capabilities from that angle.

In the back court against Struthers, Brian did the major portion of the ball handling, but against Girard his defensive powers showed to best advantage.

Reliable Mutt Schaeffer, now over his tournament "edginess," and Brian teamed up again to make shooting a near impossibility for the Indians.

High scoring Bill Beach of Girard led his team, but netted only three buckets and a foul. Time and time again Brian and Schaeffer nearly pushed Indian shots down Indian throats before they were away.

Ray Kelly, Francis Lannay and Norm Smith were smooth, cautious and on their toes all the way. Lannay's game was by far the best he has played this year and the improvement in the captain's play sends Salem hopes up a good notch or two.

Smith struck with rapidity in the first quarter and meshed his total of six, two on beautiful set shots. Kelly, minus his usual fouling tactics, played a bang-up game and cashed in for the evening's high of 14 points.

Another greatly encouraging factor about the Girard win, is the fact that Salem did so well on the large floor before the going gets stiffer against Boardman—and possibly Canton Timken.

As a comparison of their power on larger courts, the Quakers can look back to their other fray with Girard on the Salem floor and here Girard pressed them all the way and lost by 11 points—54-43.

A host of Salem fans were an important cog in the Quaker performance. Cheering the team on with noticeable enthusiasm, Salem is rated as the best "team-following" group of fans in the tournament. Approximately 1,600 fans, the second largest crowd yet, were in the field house Saturday.

Officials John Russ and Andy Lindsay had one of the cleanest games in the competition to date. Only 15 personals were called during the entire fray and most of those were of the unavoidable type.

Salem cashed in on only five of 11 tries from the free throw mark.

Quaker two-pointers came four on long set shots and 22 from within the foul line. Girard caged a pair from away out and meshed six down under.

RESULTS AT SOUTH
East 46, Louisville 36.
Timken 54, Chaney 40.
Salem 57, Girard 22.
Boardman 68, Wilson 51.

Everything is still going about as expected at South field house in the N.E.O. sectional and district Class A basketball tournament. The four seeded teams, chosen as the best in their brackets, are unbeaten and among eight outfits still hoping to go on to Kent and the regional affair.

Saturday's games revealed many things, but among the most important to Quaker followers was the comparison between Salem, Boardman and Timken—the three teams which seem most likely to be involved in one or two more lower bracket games.

In their 54-40 victory over Chaney, Coach Danny Myers' lads were not overly impressive. Elmer Bihary, a dead set shot artist, collected 20 points and big Red Moore, star center, got 15. Both are top-notch performers, but can be stopped.

A "hotter" basketball club than Boardman would have been hard to find Saturday. Meshing 68 points, the Mahoning county lads looked as if they will give Salem a run for their money in the fray Friday. Capable Tony Smith, six-foot center, is a dead-eye on a push-up shot similar to Walt Brian's. His pivoting is also very effective. In two games, Smith has netted 37 points. Jim Metz got 18 Saturday night and Wilson Fletcher collected 15.

In the Louisville-East game, East managed a slim 10-point victory, despite the fact that the Raiders pulled to within two points of them with less than three minutes to go. East, though victorious in two games, has little hope of defeating the tough Timkenites Friday.

Timken was rejuvenated Saturday by the return of Coach Myers and Forward Bill Stringer. Both had been absent Thursday with bad cases of the flu. The rejuvenation, however, failed to produce a much better showing of Timken power.

Ray Sweeney, well-known district basketball official and now coach at North Lima, is of the opinion that Salem—if they get by Boardman—can take Canton Timken. "It won't be easy, however," Sweeney says, "and the main thing will be to put the stops to that Canton fast break."

Coach Bob Miller of Salem will have a further addition of power to his club this week. Jimmie Appedisian, starting guard, will probably be back in the lineup Friday.

The most colorful cheering section seen yet was present at Saturday's Timken-Chaney game. Equipped with a pair of attractive feminine leaders and three acrobatic males, the Timken cheer drum majors cut a clever picture as they urged their team on.

Everything is still going about as expected at South field house in the N.E.O. sectional and district Class A basketball tournament. The four seeded teams, chosen as the best in their brackets, are unbeaten and among eight outfits still hoping to go on to Kent and the regional affair.

Saturday's games revealed many things, but among the most important to Quaker followers was the comparison between Salem, Boardman and Canton Timken—the three teams which seem most likely to be involved in one or two more lower bracket games.

In their 54-40 victory over Chaney, Coach Danny Myers' lads were not overly impressive. Elmer Barry, a dead set shot artist, collected 20 points and big Red Moore, star center, got 15. Both are top-notch performers, but can be stopped.

A "hotter" basketball club than Boardman would have been hard to find Saturday. Meshing 68 points, the Mahoning county lads looked as if they will give Salem a run for their money in the fray Friday. Capable Tony Smith, six-foot center, is a dead-eye on a push-up shot similar to Walt Brian's. His pivoting is also very effective. In two games, Smith has netted 37 points. Jim Metz got 18 Saturday night and Wilson Fletcher collected 15.

In the Louisville-East game, East managed a slim 10-point victory, despite the fact that the Raiders pulled to within two points of them with less than three minutes to go. East, though victorious in two games, has little hope of defeating the tough Timkenites Friday.

Timken was rejuvenated Saturday by the return of Coach Myers and Forward Bill Stringer. Both had been absent Thursday with bad cases of the flu. The rejuvenation, however, failed to produce a much better showing of Timken power.

Ray Sweeney, well-known district basketball official and now coach at North Lima, is of the opinion that Salem—if they get by Boardman—can take Canton Timken. "It won't be easy, however," Sweeney says, "and the main thing will be to put the stops to that Canton fast break."

Coach Bob Miller of Salem will have a further addition of power to his club this week. Jimmie Appedisan, starting guard, will probably be back in the lineup Friday.

The most colorful cheering scene yet was present at Saturday's Timken-Chaney game. Equipped with a pair of attractive feminine leaders and three acrobatic majes, the Timken cheer drum majors cut a clever picture as they urged their team on.

Contract Negotiations Resumed As Solution To Pay Dispute Cases

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Coal operators and miners began closed-door negotiations of a new contract today amid indications of an early break in the jam of wage cases involving fringe awards.

An informed source said Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson and the War Labor board shortly may reach agreement taking LWB out from under a directive giving the Office of Price Administration veto power over such fringe awards.

Vinson still would be able to approve or reject the board's findings. The agreement, however, would permit the WLB to clear away the accumulation of cases that has grown since Vinson brought OPA into the picture last fall.

Lewis's contract demands are centered on the fringe issue rather than a direct assault on the Little Steel formula.

Those demands were taken up today by two seven-man committees representing the union and the mine workers.

Even before they met, representatives of 600,000 members of the greater New York CIO council urged in a resolution that President Roosevelt proclaim an emergency and seize the mines as he did in 1943.

The CIO group contended Lewis is formulating a "strike plot against the nation," Lewis, in Washington, declined comment.

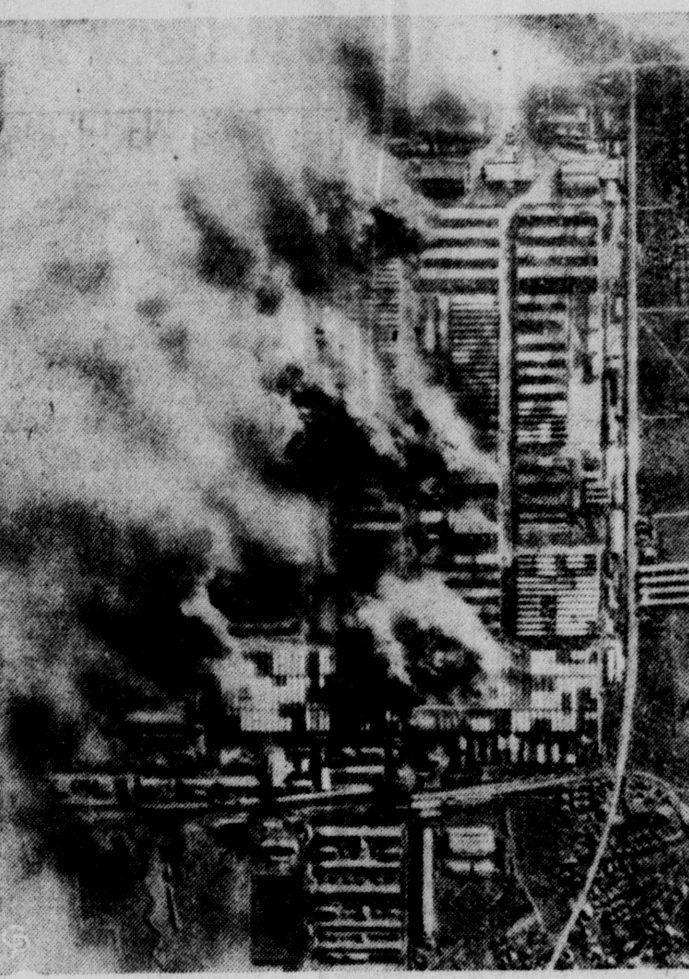

Two of Lewis's 18 demands are regarded by the operators as posing the biggest problem. They are a request for a 10-cent-a-ton royalty to the UMWA on all bituminous coal mined, and the return to a 35-hour basic week, with overtime beyond that.

The work week now is 54 hours, with overtime after 40 hours. The demand for a shorter basic week would modify the present arrangement for portal-to-portal compensation by which the miner receives two-thirds of his regular hourly rate.

Because of the involvement of the portal-to-portal issue, there was a desire on the part of many operators to hold off on this demand until the supreme court disposes of the Jewel Ridge mine test case, to be argued next Thursday.

CIO Ends Strike At Six Detroit Chrysler Plants

DETROIT, March 5.—Production of bomber plane and tank parts was resumed in six Chrysler Corp. plants today as an eight-day strike at the corporation's Dodge main plant was ended. The union decision to end the strike called approximately 25,000 workers back to their jobs.

Appeals from the War Labor board and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson preceded the action of local 3, United Automobile Workers, CIO, in calling off the strike.

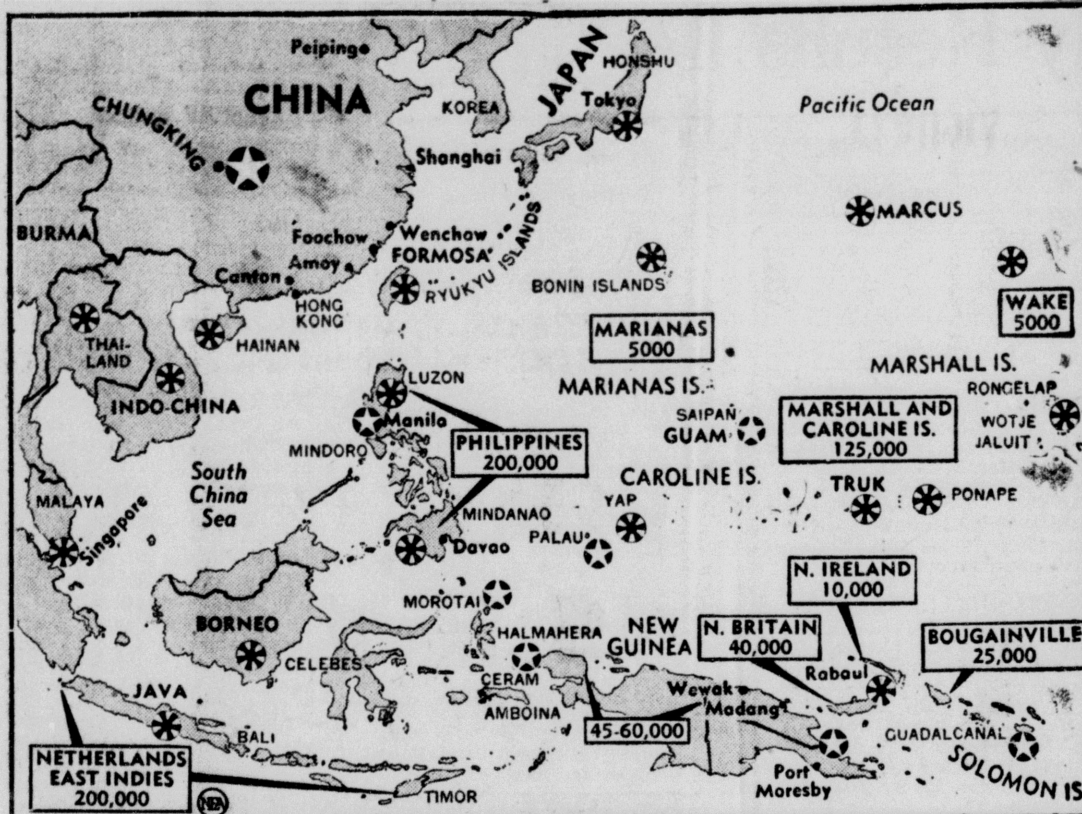

A second major Detroit labor dispute—involving 11,150 workers at the Detroit and Evansville, Ind., plants of the Briggs Manufacturing company—continued, but union officials forecast an early end to the trouble.

Map above shows areas in the Pacific war theater where more than 600,000 Jap troops have been by-passed by island-hopping Americans and left to "wither on the vine." In some places, the Japs are well-equipped, in others they are badly off physically and get no supplies. Most of the enemy forces in the Philippines are in the big southern island of Mindanao. Their leaders concentrated them there to meet an expected American invasion. Lt. General MacArthur crossed them up by landing on Lingayan Gulf, Luzon.

mander my rush after his enemy to finish him off.

The European weather man again has favored the Nazis by giving them the cover of fog and heavy skies to aid their withdrawal. This has hampered the Allied air forces which otherwise would strafe the retreating enemy heavily.

In considering the Allied crossing of the Rhine, it must be remembered that it is a tremendous project. You can't just rush soldiers over and call it a day's work. They must have food supplies and equipment. Under normal circumstances one would expect Eisenhower to take some time to prepare for the crossing, perhaps delaying it until the good weather of spring.

When Gen. Ike does go over the river, it wouldn't be surprising to see that mysterious air-borne army come into play, to land behind the Germans.

Salem Woman Hears From Missionary In Manila

The first direct news from Miss Anna Nixon, Friends missionary, interned by the Japanese at Santo Tomas, Manila, for more than three years, came Saturday in a letter from Miss Nixon to Mrs. Clarence Townsend, Ridgeway dr. It was dated Feb. 17.

Miss Nixon, who had not been harmed physically, suffered mentally. It is said that the Japs had been systematically starving the internees, and that the American army arrived there just in time to prevent even more serious suffering. She expects to be repatriated soon.

Miss Nixon was enroute to Chaturpur, Bundelkhand, India, to engage in work for Ohio Yearly meeting of Friends and was at Manila when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor.

Contract Negotiations Resumed As Solution To Pay Dispute Cases

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—Coal operators and miners began closed-door negotiations of a new contract today amid indications of an early break in the jam of wage cases involving fringe awards.

An informed source said Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson and the War Labor board shortly may reach agreement taking LWB out from under a directive giving the Office of Price Administration veto power over such fringe awards.

Vinson still would be able to approve or reject the board's findings. The agreement, however, would permit the WLB to clear away the accumulation of cases that has grown since Vinson brought OPA into the picture last fall.

Lewis's contract demands are centered on the fringe issue rather than a direct assault on the Little Steel formula.

Those demands were taken up today by two seven-man committees representing the union and the mine workers.

Even before they met, representatives of 600,000 members of the greater New York CIO council urged in a resolution that President Roosevelt proclaim an emergency and seize the mines as he did in 1942.

The CIO group contended Lewis is formulating a "strike plot against the nation," Lewis, in Washington, declined comment.

Two of Lewis's 18 demands are regarded by the operators as posing the biggest problem. They are a request for a 10-cent-a-ton royalty to the UMWA on all bituminous coal mined, and the return to a 35-hour basic week, with overtime beyond that.

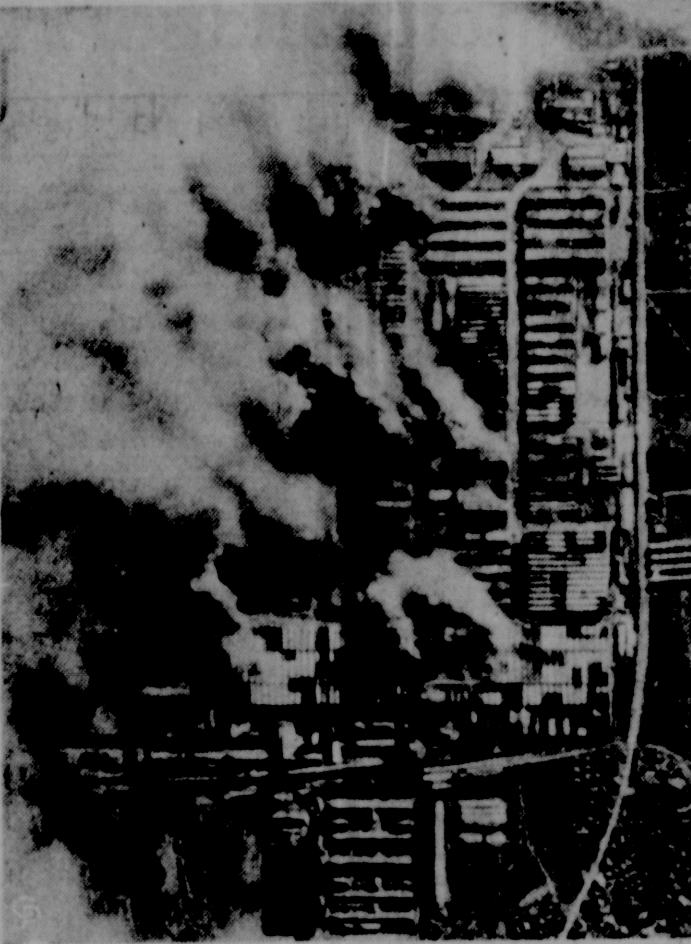

The work week now is 54 hours, with overtime at 40 hours.

The demand for a shorter basic week would modify the present arrangement for portal-to-portal compensation by which the miner receives two-thirds of his regular hourly rate.

Because of the involvement of the portal-to-portal issue, there was a desire on the part of many operators to hold off on this demand until the supreme court disposes of the Jewel Ridge mine test case, to be argued next Thursday.

30-Day Execution Stay Is Granted to 3 Ohioans

COLUMBUS, March 5.—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today granted 30-day reprieve to Johnnie Mae Gardner of Cincinnati, and her two male companions, previously scheduled to die in the electric chair Wednesday night for the slaying of a Cincinnati jeweler last April 8.
